Rochester Women's Club Celebrates Veterans

By Eric Tripoli

Memorial Day is May 28, but the Rochester Women's Club celebrated the local war vets with a meet and greet on Saturday, May 19, 2012. Veteran events in Rochester aren't very common, so event organizer and Women's Club president Nancy Boutin was hoping for a good turnout.

"There are about 300 veterans in town, and it's open to all of them," she said.

The day took about two months of planning, but her enthusiasm to support the veterans runs deep. Her late husband, Will, was a Vietnam veteran and was partly responsible for the erection of the Vietnam stone memorial near the Women's Club.

The veterans and guests were welcome to partake in a continental-style food spread, including coffee, juice, donuts and fruit salad.

The event, which ran from 9:00 am to 12:00 pm, attracted several dozen visitors, including Maurice Fuller, who said he stopped by to see friends and maybe meet new veterans. While in the Army, Fuller was stationed in Italy in World War II.

"I got there right after [the battle of] Cassino. They had a big push-off to get to Rome," he said.

He served from September of 1943 to December of 1945 and entered the war officially on May 16, 1944, four days after one of the most brutal battles of the war. "You never forget and you never will," he said.

Rochester resident Francis Cabral attended the event. He was drafted by the Army in 1969 and sent into combat in Vietnam.

"Nobody wanted to go. And when we got back, we realized it wasn't a popular war. The people hated us, no matter what. They lumped all service people together like that," Cabral said. "But I think today, things have changed for the better."

Dave Watling also visited the club so he could talk to the World War II veterans.

"My father was a World War II vet, and I like to talk them when I can. They've done something a lot of people couldn't do," he said.

Watling is a veteran himself, having enlisted in the Navy during the Vietnam War from 1968 to 1972, refueling ships out of his homeport of Long Beach, Calif. and eventually serving at the US Naval base at Subic Bay in the Philippines.

"I'd like to thank Nancy and the Women's Club for having this. They do a lot of good for the town," Watling said.

"I've always wanted to do something like this. It's a great chance for these guys to hook up, exchange a few stories. It's kind of a thank you thing," Boutin said.

Old-Time Radio Show Premieres at MAC

By Eric Tripoli

It was a night like any other. There were countless nights like it before and there were bound to be more to follow. The air was warm, like a cup of joe that's been sitting on the diner counter, waiting for its customer finish his cigarette outside.

Down by the boat docks, the water slapped gently the face of the land, where masts stood like a thin, white forest in the middle of the harbor. The sun was mostly drowned by the horizon, leaving the darkness to take root around the town.

In the gloaming, people with hats and intentions of entertaining gathered in the dark corners of the Marion Art Center. They wore lipstick, double-breasted suit jackets, and spoke in rough-and-tumble accents.

These seemingly unscrupulous individuals were in fact the Marion Art Center Players, who are performing a play this weekend in the theme of a 1940s radio comedy. The title: "Rick Lowell- Private Eye: The Stuff That Dreams Are Made Of" by writer Tony Palermo. This is the first time the troupe has done a show in the radio drama style, and that is exactly why producer and co-director Nancy Sparklin was drawn to it.

"We always want to put new material up on this stage. I'm a big Garrison Keillor fan, so for a while I've wanted to do a radio show," Sparklin said. "His sound guy, Tom Keith, was just outstanding. I thought, 'you know what? I want to do something like that!'"

"We've got it covered"

Keith, who provided sound effects for the popular weekend radio show "A Prairie Home Companion," died last October.

The show itself encompasses all the classic elements of old radio. The dialog drips with melodrama, the characters are as crooked as a spiral staircase, and the comedy is continuous. And, of course, there is a sound effects table, chock full of a random assortment of items, including a rotary telephone, a pillow (that is beaten with a club), a door lock, and shoes.

"You can picture it in your mind: the car sounds, gunshots, the voices," said co-director Sheila Furtado. "It's not an obvious form of entertainment."

Matt Hlady Achieves Eagle Scout Rank

By Laura Fedak Pedulli

Matt Hlady epitomizes what it means to "Be Prepared," the motto of the Boy Scouts of America.

The 16-year old "encyclopedia of knowledge" recently earned the Boy Scouts of America's top honor - Eagle Scout - after nine years of dedication to the Marion Cub Scout Pack 32 and Boy Scout Troop 32. He is the troop's only scout that achieved this honor this year.

"Matt is an extremely well disciplined learner, student, leader and scout. The scouts all look up to him a great deal due to his vast knowledge of seemingly all things," said Scoutmaster Doug Breault.

Only a sliver of Boy Scouts end up achieving the rank of Eagle Scout. About two million out of 84 million have since 1911, which is about 2 percent overall - according to Breault.

Hlady began his scouting career with the belief that his involvement would look great on a college resume. "Yes, I was thinking about those things in fifth grade," Hlady admitted.

But as he immersed himself, scouting ended up meaning much more, he said.

"After a while, it wasn't so much about college credit. I found out I was learning useful things earlier in life. I wasn't exactly gregarious, but I actually learned I liked being around people," Hlady said.

Achieving the Eagle Scout rank requires a capstone public service project, and Hlady took on improving a public path at the Brainard Marsh Wildlife Refuge on Delano Road in Marion. The 440-yard path leads to a beach on the Weweantic Estuary, where seals commonly are spotted on the rocks.

He led about 15 scouts in the undertaking, which was a joint venture with the Sippican Lands Trust. In particular he worked with Bill Saltonstall, the head steward of the trust, to devise a strategy to get the work done.

"We pretty much rebuilt the trail that leads down to the beach. The trail was an absolute mess," he said. The work entailed cleaning out the broken glass, removing weeds, filling in potholes, laying down a weed suppressant tarp, and covering the path with dense gravel stone.

"I was surprised by how quickly they were able to move seven cubic yards of pile out onto this path," said Bill Saltonstall. "They did a morning's work in what I thought would take a couple of days. Matt was so organized in getting help down there," he said.

"Matt turned out the people. That is often the hard part on a Saturday morning ... The path is great. It was Matt's ability to organize all the people that made it possible to do. He did a great job," he added.

Breault also complimented the scout's execution of the project at Hlady's Court of Honor, the ceremony where Hlady officially was awarded his Eagle.

"Matt ran his Eagle project very efficiently, ahead of schedule, and showed excellent leadership skills. The final outcome of Matt's project will be available to our town for decades to come, and we thank him," he said.

Breault also credited him for engaging the younger scouts and keeping the troop going even when scout numbers dipped.

"Helping the lower ranking scouts learn various scout knowledge has been a big part of Matt's scouting life. Matt participated in many boy scout events, and this was great considering Matt's entire original patrol was gone, and he was placed in our new Dragons patrol with boys two to four years his junior," he said.

Breault said perhaps most impressive about Hlady is his sheer knowledge.

"I remember once reviewing one of his badges and I was questioning him about the various treatments for things, and I mentioned cancer, and he replied 'Which type? If you mean...' and he went on to ramble off about seven different types of cancer. I might be forgetting parts of exactly what happened, but I remember that the depth of his knowledge blew me away," he said.

In life outside of scouting, Hlady maintains high honors at Tabor Academy, plays in the wind ensemble, jazz band and performs in musicals. He is also involved with the youth group at Unitarian Universalist Church in Fairhaven, and earned his black belt in Ken-Po karate.

For Hlady, he encourages scouts to pursue the

Dear Friends,

I want to share some news about my transition from being a carpenter/general contractor to real estate. I'm loving it! Over the years of doing construction, the best part of my job was being able to help people enhance their homes and in doing so, build relationships of trust, respect, and friendship. I am experiencing the same satisfaction in real estate.

As you probably know, my advertising budget was minimal. Word of mouth was the main source of getting work. My future in real estate will be built in the same way. I will work diligently and professionally to exceed your expectations! My business will be built by referrals. Referrals from people who know and trust me.

I have had my license for just over one year. Now, with a few transactions and constant continuing education, I am both confident and competent. In my corner is one of the most respected brokers in the area. Combine my knowledge of home building, and you have a strong team on your side. Also behind me is my network of professionals. Quality people with the same mindset. Ready and willing to offer expertise on everything from home repairs to legal matters. This is where I'm at, and getting better everyday, in every way.

I look forward to talking with you soon.

Yours Sincerely,

Seniors Off-Campus for Annual Breakfast

By Anne Smith

The Old Rochester Regional High School senior class enjoyed the Annual Senior Breakfast off-campus. The breakfast brings the senior class together on their last day of classes for a meal and some socialization. This year, the Marion V.F.W. was gracious enough to open its doors to the Class of 2012.

Instead of going to school for homeroom and the first block class at 7:30 am, the seniors drove to the Marion V.F.W. where they savored a meal of eggs, pancakes, French toast, sausages and bacon, courtesy of Matt's Blackboard. Parents were on hand to decorate the hall and serve the food and many teachers attended the breakfast, as well.

As part of the celebration, seniors wore college shirts to represent their plans for the next year. Most seniors are eager to leave ORR, although many expressed feelings of nostalgia.

"It's been six years of my life," Kurt Correia said. "The stereotypical 'I loved high school!' is how my life turned out to be. I got involved in everything," Correia

As Justin Galipeau phrased it, life at ORR has had its good and bad moments.

"I'm joining Festival Ballet Providence as a professional ballet dancer," Sylvia said of her future.

Tom Tucker jokingly said, "I'll be doing the French Foreign Legion." He declined to reveal his future plans at Saint Michael's College, professing that he would undoubtedly join the Legion.

College and university programs for nursing, pre-med, engineering, and education seem to be popular with the ORR seniors. Both Nathaniel and Walker Fuchs, identical twins, are planning to pursue pre-med. They will be going to different colleges, Nathaniel attending University of Vermont and Fuchs attending Wheaton College, although they said the decision wasn't because they are sick of each other.

Chris Amicucci, who will be studying biochemistry, hopes to become an orthopedic surgeon. Jewel Medeiros, who will be studying biology, plans to pursue studies in either dermatology or pathology afterwards.

Megan Pierce, Ashley Hall and Ashley Perry plan to become teachers. Pierce will be attending Fitchburg State University and plans to attain double licensure for elementary and special education. Hall has the same goal, although she'll be attending Bridgewater State University. Perry will be attending Bristol Community College for early childhood.

The teachers and school administrators who were present at the Annual Senior Breakfast were proud of the Class of 2012. Erich Carroll, a history teacher at ORR whose first homeroom is graduating, said that this year's class was very nice.

"They are always thoughtful and concerned about each other," Carroll said. "[They were] a class that seemed to get along with each other for the most part ... a bunch of nice people, good hearts."

Principal Michael Devoll was blown away by the positivism of the Class of 2012.

was sitting and eating and I thought, 'Wow, what a great class.' They're always doing the right thing, always supporting each other, and are well-respected by the staff," he said.

The seniors had until the start of second block to enjoy themselves off-campus. Finishing the breakfast around 8:15 am, many seniors drove to the Tri-Town waterfront. Most of the seniors went to Silvershell Beach in Marion where they entertained themselves on the playground, took pictures, and waded in the ocean. A group of senior boys even went swimming.

At 9:00 am, the seniors headed back to their cars for the short drive to the high school, where they waited in the front lobby until the bell rang to go to their next class. The class event was a total success and a day beloved by all attendees.

High School Innovator Creates Search Website

By Anne Smith

Marc Gammell, a senior at Old Rochester Regional High School, hasn't let the tough economy get the best of him. As jobs and internships for high school students grow more scarce, Gammell strove to make the search easier for students in the Tri-Town community by creating a forum website providing free job listings.

Parents who run their own businesses, as well as local businesses, can use the website to advertise job and internship openings directly to interested students. Gammell created his website, High School Connect2Success (HSC2S), for his senior project, which all graduating seniors are required to complete during their last term.

"Originally I was going to do [my senior project] on practical jokes," Gammell said. "But I came up with the website idea on my own and decided to pursue that."

Gammell explained that he conceived the idea while surfing the Internet during school. He had been thinking about his brother's recent co-op experience in college and wondered if there might be an easier way for students to find jobs.

The website contains a number of features that appeal to different students. One page lists current jobs and internships and operates as a forum that registered student users can access. This page also houses job and internship forms and information about how website members can use those forms to apply for positions.

Another section of the website contains blogs. The first blog is for website news and success stories. This blog allows Gammell to update website members about the

Insect Bites

My dog came inside from his run with a number of 1/2 inch red marks on his belly that were shaped like bullseyes. Are these from deer tick bites? Does it mean that he will get Lyme Disease?

Because of the mild winter, this spring has been especially bad for black flies and biting gnats. These are the small flies that circle your head in the morning and evening. When they bite a dog, usually on the belly and ears where the hair is thin, they leave a characteristic bullseye shaped mark.

Is there a way to prevent him from being attacked by these flies?

Try putting Avon Skin So Soft on the areas that have a thin hair cover. Other insect repellents containing DEET may not be safe on your dog. Use them very sparingly, as on the ears only.

website and allows members to post about their HSC2S experiences.

"[It's for] success stories of people who found jobs or parents who are happy with students' work," Gammell said.

The second blog that HSC2S produces is called Create/Innovate. In this blog, Gammell said that students can post about their own projects and promote themselves.

"I left that one open to interpretation," Gammell said. "I created something out of nothing, so I created that blog for people with creativity."

HSC2S is still a growing website, and Gammell stressed that it now needs support from parents and local businesses to increase the number of job listings. Gammell has gotten in contact with parents of current high school students through the school's email system, but he says that local businesses must email him at marcgammell@gmail.com. Local businesses that query Gammell will receive step-by-step directions for creating an account.

Gammell hopes to keep HSC2S a free resource for Tri-Town students. Eventually, he would like to relinquish control of the website to school administrators.

HSC2S is for all high school students and even eighth graders, although Gammell thinks it would have the most appeal to seniors.

"We're looking for summer jobs and we are trying to find out what career path [interests us]," Gammell said.

"The website helps with this."

The value of HSC2S stems from its localized natured, Gammell said.

"It's really similar to LinkedIn but more localized. It creates a safety net. You know who you're dealing with – parents, students," he said.

Hopefully, parents will be joining the website and posting job listings for the high school students. Gammell stresses that these job listings can be for anything as small as some yard work or babysitting as large as job shadowing. These internships may be either paid or unpaid, perhaps in a situation where a parent wants to have a student help out in the workplace.

"The student gets an idea of the career," Gammell said. "And the parent gets help. It's a win-win."

Parents and local businesses are encouraged to join the website, Gammell said, because they're a networking connection.

"There's a ton of successful parents around here and on the way to success, they've made connections." Gammell hopes that parents might even use the website to post not just their own job listings, but comments about job openings that they've heard about.

"I tried to keep [the website] as simple and user-friendly as possible," Gammell said. "That's one of my selling points. It's easy to use. The more parents and local businesses that sign up, the more success the site and students will see."

Local Chorus Making Fenway Park Debut By Katy Fitzpatrick

They've only been around a short while, but in that time, the SouthCoast Children's Chorus has taken their show to a grand scale that's showing no signs of stopping. In just a few short weeks, they will be taking the field at America's Most Beloved Ballpark to sing the National Anthem before a matchup between the Boston Red Sox and the New York Yankees.

"I told them at our February concert," said Artistic Director Leslie Piper. "They went crazy!"

The chorus was formed in the winter of 2010 around the time of the Sippican Choral Society's Winter Concert. The society's director Brian Roderick had the idea to bring together five small local children's church choirs for a large performance. Piper was the director of one of those small choirs.

"Each group tends to be pretty small, and when we came together, we had this wonderful sound," Piper said. "I asked the Sippican Choral Society to keep this group together and they thought it was a great idea and were very willing to support us."

Since that initial concert, the group has doubled in size. It now boasts 46 members from towns including Marion, Mattapoisett, Rochester, Fairhaven, Dartmouth, Westport and Cuttyhunk Island. 40 of those members are in grades 3-12 and are part of the touring chorus. The remaining six members are in grades 1-2 and make up the prep chorus.

No matter the age, the kids are always willing to give their all. They rehearse once a week at St. Gabriel's Episcopal Church in Marion.

"It is my belief that children will achieve whatever you expect them to achieve," Piper said. "If you set high standards, they will achieve high standards. They have proven that they have an amazing work ethic."

The group's repertoire includes a variety of different traditional songs from countries all over the world in a multitude of different languages. From Hebrew to German, and from as far away as Africa, the kids are exposed to several different cultures.

"I love having the kids sing in different languages because they learn so quickly," said Piper. "It's wonderful to introduce them to these songs so we can introduce them to new cultures and broaden their understanding of the world."

Despite the international selections, there is still one homegrown song that is a favorite of the group's to perform- the Star Spangled Banner. In February, the group learned that they would be performing the anthem at Fenway Park on Sunday, July 8.

Piper submitted an audition CD to the Red Sox over a year ago, and this year, she received an e-mail confirming that they had been selected to perform.

"It was just one of those things," Piper said. "My son sang the National Anthem at Fenway with his college group and I thought, 'I'm going to try and get my kids up there. Who knows? We'll take a chance.'"

In addition to shipping up to Boston, the chorus has traveled out to the western part of the state, most recently to South Hadley where they teamed up with another children's chorus to put on a dual performance.

But Piper is looking to bring this group's show on the road across the country.

"I would love to take them to a festival," said Piper. "There's one in Chicago that would be exciting to be a part of. They would have the chance to sing under a nationally recognized conductor and since with hundreds of other children from across the country. That would be really exciting"

With the size of the group doubling in the past year alone, Piper is thrilled at the idea of even more expansion.

"I would love to keep on expanding," she said. "My goal is to have more levels than we do now. I would love to have a select chorus with kids who want to work

Marion Tow Boat Captain Found Dead

By Katy Fitzpatrick

A Tow Boat U.S. Captain was found dead inside the cabin of his 29-foot boat around 8:30 on Wednesday morning, ending a search that had been ongoing all morning, Coast Guard officials say.

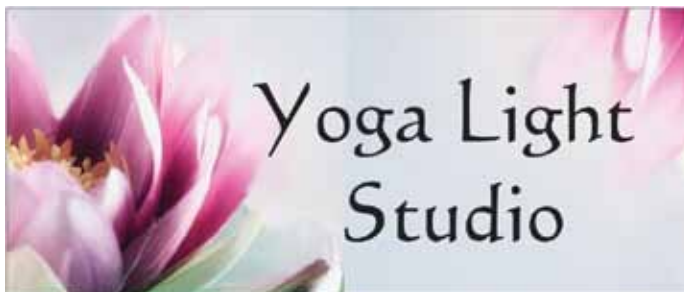

"Ending a search like this is a hard outcome to accept," said Lt. Brian Hall, the command duty officer at Coast Guard Sector Southeastern New England. "Our thoughts are with his family and friends."

The search began around 1:00 am after the Coast Guard received a distress call at its Sector Southeastern New England command center from the Triple J's captain, who reported that his vessel was taking on water.

The Coast Guard teamed up with the Bourne Police Department, and Harbormasters from Marion and Wareham in the search.

A 25-foot Response Boat from Coast Guard Station Cape Cod Canal, a 41-foot Utility Boat from Coast Guard Station Woods Hole and the Coast Guard Cutter Tigershark were immediately launched to search for the captain.

The Wareham Harbormaster found the Triple J unmanned and partially submerged around 6:00 am approximately three miles south of Hog Island Channel

The Wareham, Mass., harbormaster found the Triple J unmanned and partially submerged around 6 a.m. approximately three miles south of Hog Island Channel.

Officials identified the captain as 37-year-old John M. Redler of Marion.

"Sadly, accidents like these are a very real danger of working on the water," said Lt. Daniel Tanksley, a Command Duty Officer at the 1st Coast Guard District Command Center. "In the wake of tragedies like this, we urge mariners to recognize these dangers, operate safely, and be prepared for the worst."

Unanimous Votes at Rochester Town Meeting

Rochester Annual Town Meeting

By Eric Tripoli

Rochester held its Annual Town Meeting on Monday May 21, in the cafeteria of Rochester Memorial School. The beginning of the meeting was delayed about 20 minutes because a voting quorum of 75 was not present. Some in attendance called friends and family, asking them to come down so the meeting could proceed. In total, 83 voters turned out for the meeting.

There were 17 articles on the Town Warrant this year, but very few generated any discussion. Article 4, the Town Operating Budget, resulted in one question regarding the cut in hours for the Town Clerk. Current Town Clerk Naida Parker said that the decrease in hours was the result in reduced office hours during the summer and because some responsibilities have been passed to other branches of the town.

"For example, the dog licensing is now usually handled by the police," said Parker.

Article 15, regarding the construction of a solar array to provide the City of New Bedford Waterworks with its electricity needs, was expected to generate much debate, but there were no questions from the audience. The article would authorize the Selectmen to negotiate a payment in lieu of taxes from the New Bedford Waterworks in exchange for use of Rochester land for the project. Arnold Johnson did address the meeting regarding the installation of the solar array.

"There is no application for this project currently in front of the Planning Board," he said.

The final piece, Article 17, did inspire a few comments and clarifications from the Board of Selectmen. The article deals with the Town of Rochester appropriating money to tie residents on Marion Road and Mary's Pond Road into the town water system due to the discovery of higher-than-normal levels of contaminants in several samples taken by the Department of Environmental Protection. The DEP found high levels of trace chemicals found in fireworks in samples taken from town land. They also requested to sample well water from a total of 22 homes in the area.

Originally only seven consented, with three more agreeing months later. Normal levels of the chemicals were found in those samples, but as the investigation continued, the DEP later found a slight increase in only two samples taken from the residents' wells.

"Is there any sort of legal action the people can take if the town is responsible?" asked one resident who did not identify himself upon speaking.

The DEP concluded that the Town of Rochester was the most likely responsible party for the presence of these chemicals, and in an effort to rectify the situation without litigation, the town has offered to cover all costs associated with hooking up residents affected by the contamination to town water service.

Solar Panel Bylaw Discussed

Rochester Planning Board

By Eric Tripoli

The Rochester Planning Board spent some time Tuesday, May 22, at their regular meeting discussing specifics regarding the new solar panel bylaw they are crafting. At the Annual Town Meeting Monday night, the town of Rochester voted unanimously to approve an agreement between the town and Consolidated Edison Solutions, Inc. – on behalf of the City of New Bedford – to allow a large solar panel array be built on town land. The energy generated would provide for the electricity needs for the City of New Bedford Waterworks. This was new territory for the Planning Board.

"We haven't done an actual zoning like this before," said Planning Board Chairman Arnold Johnson.

The Planning Board touched upon several details to include in the bylaw, including devising a plan to require solar panel operators to maintain the property, and requiring a bond be put in place to guarantee the operators dismantle the array should it become non-operational at any point in time. Planning Board member Susan Teal said that they should also consider specific and separate requirements, when necessary, for both residential and commercial purposes. They are also considering language to denote regulations and expectations for land-based and structure-based solar panel arrays.

In other business, the Planning Board discussed changes to the town's home business bylaw. They are considering updating setback laws regarding the location of accessory buildings that are related to a home-based business. There is no public hearing yet scheduled on this item.

Chairman Arnold Johnson also mentioned that on Monday, June 4, there will be a joint meeting of the Planning Board and the Board of Selectmen in order to appoint someone to fill a vacancy on the Planning Board.

The next meeting of the Rochester Planning Board will be on Tuesday, June 5.

No Ruling in Shore View Garage Hearing

Mattapoisett Zoning Board of Appeals

By Eric Tripoli

The Mattapoisett ZBA met on the evening of Thursday, May 17, at the Town Hall for their regular meeting, with three hearings on the agenda. Engineer Doug Schneider was on hand to speak on behalf of Christian Hicks, regarding a property at 11 Shore View Avenue. Hicks was seeking a special permit to demolish a single-story garage and reconstruct a two-story storage building that will not meet setbacks. The new building will nearly maintain the same footprint, but will have double the storage, at 900 sq. ft.

Michael Herrington, an abutter, said that the original structure was built decades ago by his father, and was used to house boating supplies and tools. It was built before the town of Mattapoisett issued ten-foot setback laws, and, he admitted, with little regard by his father for where the property lines were when he built the structure. The setback laws of ten feet were decided in 1973.

"They say it's three feet off my line, but that's the biggest three feet I've ever seen. It's right on my line," Herrington said.

He also cited concern that the doubling of the height of the building would have a negative impact on the neighborhood.

"All the houses in this area are one-story. This structure will be a detriment in the neighborhood. There has never been a two-story building here," he said.

He was also concerned that, should the owners decide later in time to turn the 900 sq. ft. garage into a living residence, they would need to tie into neighborhood utilities. He asked the Board to consider a special condition that would forbid the owners from converting the building into a residence.

Acting Board Chairman Susan Akin said it was unnecessary to consider that condition because it is illegal for them to convert the future storage structure into living space.

The Zoning Board of Appeals made no ruling as two members have personal connections to individuals involved with the project. The case will be turned over to the Town Council for a decision.

The Board also heard from Doug Schneider on behalf of William and Kirsten Durbin, who are seeking a permit for 21 Bay Road to demolish a storage structure and erect a two-story building on the other side of the home to be used as an art studio. The house on the land burned down last summer and a newer, larger home has been under construction since the fall.

Some abutters felt that the erection of a two-story studio next to a four-story house would make the neighborhood feel too dense and could negatively impact views of the water from neighboring properties. The Board voted to deny the application due to new changes in the construction of the studio. The new plans showed that it would be built up a few inches higher than what was previously approved.

In other business, the Zoning Board of Appeals also voted in favor of reissuing a permit to allow a family-related apartment within the home at 7 Gosnold Street.

The next meeting of the Mattapoisett Zoning Board of Appeals will be on Thursday, June 21, 2012, at 6:00 pm at the Town Hall.

145-Foot Cell Tower Proposed

Mattapoisett Planning Board

By Joan Hartnett-Barry

Citing a procedural issue regarding proper notice to abutters and the public, the Mattapoisett Planning Board tabled a hearing for a Special Permit requested by Industrial Tower & Wireless, LLC of Marshfield, MA to construct a 145-foot monopole telecommunications facility within a 100-foot by 100-foot leased area and a 25-foot wide access and utility easement on land owned by Dennis Mahoney & Sons, Inc.

The location of the proposed site has frontage on Route 6, with a town water tank to the east of the property. The tower would be located near Jane Lane, Randall Road, Marion Road and nearby Prospect and Pine Island Roads. One abutter, who told the board that he and his wife were not officially notified of the hearing, attended the meeting.

The proposal, which was available for the public to review at the meeting included a letter from Mattapoisett Chief of Police, Mary Lyons, which endorsed the project and urged the Planning Board to approve the proposal.

"Our (Police Department) existing radio communication has some coverage deficiencies within our town...and Industrial Tower & Wireless has offered the police department free space for an antenna on the top of the tower which should vastly improve our radio communication coverage along Route 6 from the Mattapoisett Police Department to the Marion line and south along Prospect and Aucoot Road including Hollywoods Road and the waterfront. The Mattapoisett Police Department recommends that the Planning Board support the application," Lyons wrote in the letter to the Planning Board.

In other business, the board approved the division of a vacant parcel of land into two separate non-buildable parcels according to existing ownership percentages. Carolyn Hoyer of 52 Prospect Road and abutter, Tweedie agreed to have 1,253 square feet be conveyed to the Tweedie property and the remaining to stay with the Hoyer property.

"We want to put up a shed and park on the property," said Hoyer.

The board approved the application.

Recreation Committee Seeking New Members

Mattapoisett Board of Selectmen

By Katy Fitzpatrick

The Mattapoisett Recreation Committee is seeking new members to help bring more programs to town, according to Chairman Jeremy Collier, who spoke to the Board of Selectmen at their regular meeting on Tuesday, May 22.

Collier said the committee is looking to expand by two people, increasing the total number of members from five to seven. However, the committee could, by law, add as many as four new members.

"I think it would be advantageous to have four," said Town Administrator Michael Gagne.

Collier said some of the organizations from which they are seeking new members include the Road Race Committee, Old Rochester Little League, the Council on Aging, Bike Bath Committee, Old Rochester Lacrosse, Matt Sail and others. Collier said recruiting members from different organizations in town would help bring new programs to fruition.

The commitment for new members as it stands right now would be meeting on the first Thursday of every month from September through June at the Center School. However, Collier said he would potentially look into meeting twice per month to make sure new programs are voted on in a timely manner.

"We are hoping to have the positions filled in the next month or two," he said.

In other news, the Selectmen granted Fire Chief Andrew Murray permission to sell the town's old Gamewell Fire Boxes. There are 35 of these boxes that used to be connected to the building and poles throughout the town.

"I think you will sell these very quickly," said Gagne.

Murray said Fairhaven recently sold 100 of these for $75 apiece in two days, however Mattapoissett would have to set their prices based on the varying conditions of each individual box.

The Board also voted to appoint a new police officer as recommended by Police Chief Mary Lyons. Lyons suggested Nick Lorenzo, a lifelong Mattapoisett resident. Lorenzo studied both Criminal Justice and Business at Bridgewater State University and has been employed part-time as both an EMT and police officer in Mattapoisett since 2007.

"He has very strong credentials," said Selectmen Chair Paul Silva.

Ray Andrews went before the board to give an update on the newly formed Mattapoisett Housing Trust. The recent Town Meeting awarded the Trust with $25,000 to start funding an affordable housing project for senior citizen in Mattapoisett.

Now that the funds have been acquired, Andrews said the next step is to set up a new Trust Committee and dissolve the old Mattapoisett Housing Partnership. The new Trust Committee would need 5-9 members, including one Selectmen. The Board voted to dissolve the old partnership and to adopt the new Trust.

The Board of Selectmen rearranged themselves for the upcoming year. They voted to appoint Jordan Collyer to be the new Chairman; while Tyler Macallister will assume the Vice Chairman role and Paul Silva will be the board's new Clerk.

Gagne said both the Planning Board and Open Space Committee were seeking new members. On the Planning Board, one seat is available, and all interested candidates should submit their resumes and letters of recommendation to Town Hall by Tuesday, June 5. Interviews will be conducted on June 12 at the Board of Selectmen regular meeting.

All interested candidates for the Open Space Committee should contact Gagne. He encourages those who are looking for a small, few month's commitment to get involved.

Gagne also encourages all residents to check out the town's website, www.mattapoisett.net, for a complete on demand video archive of municipal meetings.

America's Premier Mosquito, Tick and Flea Repellent for Grassy Areas: Yards, Parks, Athletic Fields and Golf Courses. Just one spraying of all natural, garlic-based liquid will keep mosquitoes, ticks, fleas, gnats, fire ants and black flies out of your yard and away from your home, 24 hours a day for nearly a month.

Mosquito Barrier is a very strong liquid garlic made from very potent garlic cloves. The garlic used in Mosquito Barrier is a very powerful variety, which is much more potent than the garlic found in grocery stores. Garlic has natural sulfur, which repels insects, including mosquitoes, ticks, fleas and even black flies. Spraying garlic to keep insects away is not something new; farmers and master gardeners have been doing it for many generations.

Since mosquitoes are soft-bodied insects, the garlic juice can be very toxic to them in increased concentrations. The juice does not harm humans, pets or plants, but to mosquitoes, it can be deadly. The odor of it chases them out of the area and they stay away - for as long as they can detect the odor. While the odor of sprayed garlic juice becomes undetectable to humans within minutes, the mosquitoes will still detect it. Mosquitoes have extremely sensitive odor sensing antennae - as high as 10,000 times better than humans do. They can detect the garlic extract for much longer periods and will stay away from the sprayed area for up to a month.

Additionally, Mosquito Barrier, when mixed with canola oil and water, coats any standing water in the area with a very thin film of natural oil, including some garlic oil, which is present in the garlic juice. This oil suffocates the mosquito larvae that are developing in any standing water. Mosquito Barrier, unlike harmful chemicals, does not kill bees or butterflies and is completely safe for children, fish, birds, dogs, cats and other pets.

Mosquito Barrier is a three-pronged attack:

- (1) It kills the adult mosquitoes.
- (2) The garlic-coated plants keep mosquitoes out of the area.
- (3) It suffocates any mosquito larvae in standing water, such as puddles, under decks, water in tin cans or depressions in lawn, etc.

Marion Residents Slog Through 44 Articles

Marion Annual Town Meeting

By Laura Fedak Pedulli

About 140 Marion residents came out for the Spring Annual Town Meeting on Monday, May 21 - but less than half stayed for the four and a half hours it took to slog through 44 warrant articles.

However, as promised by Town Moderator David Titus, residents did manage to settle the articles in a single night - but not without some heated debate and discourse on the budget, the Marion Open Space Acquisition Committee's purchasing powers, school expenditure requests, Fire Department capital requests, the need for upgrades to the Town House phone system, and other issues at hand.

In the end, all articles but Article 36 - which was passed over - were approved.

Town residents unanimously approved $18,797,635 for the town's FY 2013 operating budget. The breakdown of the budget is as follows: 53 percent towards the schools, 10 percent for pension and insurance, 13 percent for public safety, 8 percent for general government, 6 percent for public works, 4 percent for school pension and insurance, 2 percent for school debt, 2 percent for debt service, 1 percent for culture and recreation, and 1 percent for human services.

Although questions arose about the proposed $700,000 budget increase over last year, residents unanimously OK'd the request.

Some of the most time-consuming and contentious articles involved the Marion Open Space Acquisition Committee.

Article 26 asked residents to change the composition of the Community Preservation Committee to reduce MOSAC's representation. Essentially the article would replace one of the two currently serving Marion Open Space Acquisition Committee members on the CPC with a Selectmen. MOSAC is the only committee that has more than two members sitting on the CPC.

The article passed 85-60, but only after significant debate. CPC Chair Lori Schaefer asked residents to maintain the status quo, and said no issues have arisen due to MOSAC's higher representation. Likewise, Norman Hills, a CPC member, urged attendees to maintain the current member composition. "I don't know if this is a real problem or an imaginary problem," he commented.

Resident Tom Magauran countered these remarks, voicing strong support of the article. "CPC decisions have a huge financial impact, I think it is important that the Board of Selectmen ...is seated at the table."

Selectmen Henry explained the Selectmen's rationale behind the article - recalling an instance where two MOSAC members held significant sway on an issue because of another member's absence. "It seems disproportionate that two positions are afforded to the open space people..." he said.

MOSAC chair John Rockwell said the CPC wasn't directly informed of the article, and called it "bad governance."

In the end, the measure barely passed 85-60 - guaranteeing one Selectman a seat at the CPC table and effectively removing a MOSAC representative, Consideration of a citizen's petition (Article 35) that would require MOSAC to receive Town Meeting authorization prior to purchasing land or receiving land gifts took up a sizeable portion of the evening. The committee controls about $440,000 to spend on such land purchases. A related measure, Article 36, was passed over at the request of Town Counsel Jon Whitten because it was inconsistent with state law.

Article 35 stirred up debate from a significant crop of residents and even former State Senator Carol Amick, who owns property in Marion. In her statement, Amick said MOSAC's ability to acquire land without Town Meeting approval "is not a policy followed by any [open space committee] in Massachusetts." She said MOSAC still would be able to negotiate, request appraisements and other prep work for a land purchase deal, but that the town would need to be the final arbitrators on an acquisition.

Many other residents spoke for and against the measure.

"Article 35 doesn't put MOSAC out of business. It formalizes and makes routine purchases so they come for Town Meeting approval. This is a good thing," weighed in resident Mark Brown.

"This is nonsense. Negotiations in private do not benefit the town....This is pure and utter poppycock. If anybody knows the cluster mess the [MOSAC] negotiations are.. bringing it out in public view will only benefit all of us," Magauran said.

Other residents questioned the value of purchasing land as open space, which results in more land precluded from development.

"I think it is a difficult article," said another resident, Charles Bradley. "We'll go broke buying land and buying land and just letting it sit there.. it is coming off our tax rolls. We need a master plan, and to come up with some good planning instead of acquisition after acquisition."

Selectman Jon Henry threw his support behind MOSAC's ability to purchase land without Town Meeting overnight. "I support MOSAC, everything is done in consonance with state law,"

John Rockwell of MOSAC spent considerable time reflecting on the accomplishments of the committee, which was formed in 2001.

"If [the article] passed, it would prevent us from acquiring property.. if you wanted to give us something, you would have to get Town Meeting approval. It's burdensome to tell someone to wait six months before making transfer."

Along that argument, Rockwell presented an amendment to the article that would require Town Meeting approval only for purchases, and not for gifts. "It would lessen the burden to someone donating something," he said.

The vote on Rockwell's proposed amendment ended up so close a hand count was required. The amendment was defeated 75-63. Shortly thereafter, Article 35 ended up receiving majority approval.

In one anticipated vote, the town easily approved the transfer of a parcel of land (at 185 Wareham Street) to Habitat for Humanity, or other similar organization, for the purpose of constructing a residence to be sold to a qualified low or moderate-income family. The measure further authorized the Board of Selectmen to convey an easement across the property.

Residents also approved two articles related to alternative energy. However - Article 37, which authorizes Selectmen to enter into a lease agreement (up to 30 years) to develop a photovoltaic solar field at a landfill off Benson Brook Road, generated some debate.

Town Administrator Paul Dawson said the town would benefit from the rental agreement with the solar energy developer, and the town would incur no costs associated with developing the site.

In his comments, resident and Planning Board Vice Chair Tom Magauran said he felt more data should be on the table regarding the project.

"I urge you to go very slow. Perhaps in the fall we could do a Planning Board article.. I feel this is a little premature when you haven't formulated what strategy makes sense."

Resident Crystal Bradley echoed that sentiment. "How is this part of any plan that you have for this land? It sounds like one of those one-off things we approve without a larger plan."

Resident Bill Saltonstall, who is involved in the project, said the town's next step is requesting proposals. "The town doesn't run any risks with this thing," he said, citing a similar successful project in Brewster. "If Brewster any indication, we could do this," he said. The measure passed easily.

The second alternative energy article, Article 38, authorizes Selectmen and/or the Old Rochester Regional School Committee to enter into alternate energy power purchase and/or net metering credit purchase agreements, including solar and wind energy for contracts exceeding five years. Selectman Stephen Cushing informed the town that the Selectmen are vetting three different wind and solar proposals.

"None would be built in Marion," he stressed. The measure carried swiftly.

Warrant Article 11 asking for $50,000 to update a new telephone system for the Town House provoked a bit of debate as well. Selectman Henry said it was time for an upgrade to the telephone hardware and software as the town's "Band-Aid approach" was not working and many voicemail messages had been lost.

Magauran argued that such a purchase would be reactionary, especially given the uncertainty of what will happen with the Town House.

"We react only in the case of an emergency. That is how we got the police station, that is how we got a lot of stuff, and we got to stop that," he said. "It's another case of being nicked and dimed... and $50,000 is a big nickel." Residents applauded.

"You don't need much trouble with the phone system to get people mad at you.. It's unreasonable and imprudent. It's simple to replace the system, and it's portable," Selectmen Henry responded.

In response to the question whether the town explored a leasing arrangement, Town Finance Director Judith Mooney responded in the negative

The conversation became so extracted that resident John Sweeney moved the question - and in the end the residents approved the funding for the new system.

Town residents also approved warrant articles regarding the water enterprise fund, including authorization of $2,046,697 for its operation - with some of the funds raised from department receipts. Another 2,346,639 was authorized for the sewer enterprise fund,

Throughout the evening, residents swiftly approved several administrative articles regarding retirements and liability benefits. Also, with relatively little discussion, the Police Department received free cash funds for a new police cruiser and the Fire Department received authorization for $35,000 for air pack replacements, $16,800 for eight replacement automatic external defibrillators, $20,000 to purchase rescue cutters / jaws of life, $48,500 for the department to upgrade its fire alarm system, security components, and computer programs, $12,500 to replace 1,000 feet of 20-year old hose and two nozzles, and $7,5000 to replace four garage door openers at the Spring Street Station.

Residents also authorized the EMS Department to purchase two monitors / defibrillators for $62,500 from free cash. The Harbormaster also had some minor capital requests approved.

In another vote that will have a major impact on town residents, the town unanimously approved FEMA's latest revised maps of the flood plain district, which go into effect in July. Approval was necessary for town residents to receive coverage under the National Flood Insurance Program.

Also zoning bylaw changes passed without incident, allowing residents more leniency in building piers, docks and association piers. The final zoning bylaw passed allows accessory apartments up to 1,200 square feet; it had previously been restricted to 800 square feet.

their concerns about a potential project. The hearing was held at the board's regular meeting on the evening of Thursday, May 17 in the Marion Town House.

Henry DeJesus and his wife Judy are looking to purchase the property on Hartley Avenue, where a small cottage currently exists. The proposed project brought to the Board of Appeals would raze the current cottage and construct a new one that is both larger and taller in size.

The new cottage would be two stories and would have four bedrooms as well as a large covered porch. The square footage of the current cottage is 926 square feet. The proposed plans for the new project would increase the square footage to 2,760 square feet. The height of the new cottage would be 31 feet in order to suit FEMA regulations pertaining to the flood plain maps.

"We feel we are compatible with the surrounding neighborhood," said Project Engineer Dave Davignon. The property DeJesus is looking to purchase is currently abutted by three other properties; all of whom were concerned with the construction plans. Attorney Daniel Perry represented the concerned families.

According to Perry, the new property would create a lot of congestion and produce inadequate lighting for abutters due to the size of the new cottage and where it is located on the property. The new cottage would be two-and-a-half times the size of the old one and would be situated just 11 feet from the neighboring property of the Dibeau family.

"It's going to create a canyon effect," said Perry.

Favoring a compromise between the two parties in order to avoid sending the hearing to court, ZBA board member Bob Wedge asked if there was any way the property could be moved six to seven feet eastward on the property to create more room.

DeJesus and his planners will redraft plans and present them at another public hearing on Thursday, June 14 at 7:30 pm.

The Zoning Board of Appeals also continued a hearing for Frederic Rosiak and his property located at 294 Front St. Rosiak is looking to replace the front porch and car port on his property. He says that the current porch and garage do not match the historical feel of the house.

"The existing deck is a style fitting in the 1970's or 1980's," he said.

The Board was supportive of Rosiak's initial plans, but requested to see scaled drawings. Rosiak will draft the drawings and present them during another hearing on Thursday, May 31.

The Marion Zoning Board of Appeals will meet again on Thursday, May 31 at 7:30 pm in Marion Town House.

School Report

ORR Presents The Comedy of Errors

By Anne Smith

The words of playwright William Shakespeare filled the auditorium at Old Rochester Regional High School on Thursday, May 17 as the students in Kathleen Brunelle's theater class presented their interpretation of "The Comedy of Errors," a complicated tale involving two sets of twins whose identities become mistaken by the other characters. The production's cast consisted of 24 students who were supported by two stage managers and two assistant directors.

Brunelle served as a director for the drama along with Paul Sardinha, who stepped in to help with the production when Brunelle left the school on maternity leave.

"I need to thank Paul for taking the reins," Brunelle said before the show. "He's really gone above and beyond in helping out."

In her introduction, Brunelle also thanked three students for being in her classroom the entirety of their four years at ORR. These students were Eric Geldmacher, Lucas Parker, and Ashley Perry.

"We have a mix of kids in the class," Brunelle said of the elective. "We have students who have never acted before and we have veteran actors, so they learn from each other."

Brunelle added that a show like "The Comedy of Errors" requires the students to work together to determine both what the lines mean and how to convey those meanings to the audience.

In the original text, both sets of twins are male. In the ORR rendition, these twins were female. Male students, keeping to Shakespearean tradition, played half of these characters. Samuel Hill, who took on the role of Antipholous of Syracuse, performed as the servant to Eric Geldmacher's Dromia of Syracuse.

Makenzie Despres performed as Samuel Hill's twin and Kayla Ryan performed as Eric Geldmacher's. Lucas Parker played Aegeon, and Shannon Frink played his wife, Aemelia. Steven Lang played Adriano, while Ian MacLellan played his brother, Luciano. Alex Carr featured as the Duke Solinus, and Eliza Treichel appeared as Angela, the goldsmith. Ashley Perry played Balta, Brittany Brzezinski played Luce, and Samuel Carey played Nathan.

Other members of the cast included: Marie Sylvester, Tess Roiter, Nicole Enos, Dennis Blais, Courtney McLeod, Nicole Boardman, Ashley Monger, Christina Ahrens, Roslyn Flaherty, Violet Foulk, and Anna Haznar.

Juliana Marques and Violet Foulk served as stage managers for the production. The assistant directors, Megan Pierce and Madelyn Pellegrino, assisted them in their work.

In the plot of the play, a family was split apart by a stormy sea. The father, Aegeon, tied himself to one mast with one of each twin, while his wife, Aemelia, did the same with the other twins. One family went to Syracuse and the other went to Ephesus; the two cities were warring.

In the course of the play, Dromia and Antipholous of Syracuse travel to Ephesus in order to search for their missing halves. Hilarity ensues when the townsfolk mistake each twin for the other. Some twins are suspected of illness and insanity, while others are accused of crimes. It is not until the last scene of the play when the twins, whom the other characters believe are both inside and outside a convent, find each other and celebrate a reunion with their parents.

Judging by the audience's reaction, Samuel Hill and Eric Geldmacher stole the show with their falsettos and hair-flipping. The pair was unbelievable on stage, expertly portraying their characters by exaggerating feminine mannerisms. They had honest chemistry as mistress-and-servant, which stemmed from their friendship and banter in class. Connecting to the audience, Eric Geldmacher tossed his blonde wig into the audience during curtain call.

The theater class is a half-year elective open to all students at ORR. It runs during the spring semester and welcomes students with and without stage experience.

ORR Track Teams Remain Undefeated

Sports Shorts

By India Krawczyk

•Old Rochester Boys and Girls Track- After beating both Seekonk and Apponaquet last week, as well as winning the SCC Championships, both the ORR boys and girls Track teams are undefeated.

The Seekonk meet remained close throughout between ORR and Seekonk, but some outstanding performances helped to swing it in ORR's favor. Margaret O'Day and Abby Hiller did very well in the 800, coming in first and second, respectively, against Seekonk. For the boys, Dan Donohue in the 400 and Colby Stabell at Long Jump were important players.

For the meet against Apponaquet at ORR, Meagan Bell and Paige Santos did well in the hurdles, placing first and second, respectively. For the boys, Dan Donohue and Matt Vicino placed well in the 200.

The boys and girls conclude their regular season as undefeated SCC champs.

•Old Rochester Boys Tennis – The ORR boys beat Bourne High School last week 4-1, continuing their winning streak. Matt Teefy won both his singles matches 6-1 and 6-1, and Noah Filloramo and Alden Truesdale won their doubles 6-0 and 6-2.

She plans to study psychology, then earn a law degree and become either a civil rights or family practice attorney.

Obituaries:

Virginia Barden, 89, passed away on May 13th at the Sippican Healthcare Center, Marion, after a long illness. She had been a resident of Mattapoisett for 31 years.

Virginia Rossney was born in Boston, graduated from Quincy High School, resided in Pawtucket, RI for six years and then spent the first four years of her married life with George Barden in New York City where their two sons were born. In 1950 Virginia and her family moved to Westbury, Long Island, where they resided for 30 years until retiring and relocating to an old family home in Mattapoisett.

Virginia was deeply involved in mineralogy and palaeontology during the Long Island years and spent many happy hours prospecting for fossil and mineral specimens with fellow rock-hounds in New England, the Middle Atlantic States and Canada. She also made jewelry from the specimens she collected as well as from semi-precious minerals from around the world. Upon retiring to Mattapoisett, her skills as a craftsperson were applied to the weaving of Nantucket baskets and to teaching Nantucket basket weaving to local residents.

She will be missed by her husband, sons Robert Barden of the Isle of Man, Richard Barden of Granbury, TX, and stepson Thomas Edwards of Westlake Village, CA. She is also survived by her two grandchildren, Robert Barden, Jr. of Port Jefferson, NY, and Lisa Barden Brown of Fairplay, CO, and by her three great-grandchildren, Mick, Bailey and Cecilia Barden of Port Jefferson, NY.

Family and friends will be invited to attend a memorial service at a place and date as yet determined.

EDITOR'S PICK OF THE WEEK

Vacation: Day One

Everyone has their stories about traveling with kids. Traveling with yours, sitting next to someone else's, we've all been there. Let me start by saying I win. I know what you're thinking, your trip was so much worse, but give me a chance to convince you, I win.

My "vacation" was to travel with my family and my in-laws to a wedding in Arizona. You might think that that topic right there would make a good sitcom episode, but I'm not writing about that and not just because they read this paper.

Our flight started out delayed, so we got to spend a lovely four hours in an overcrowded Logan airport, not so bad in the end. Once we got on the plane we played a little 'is the plane leaving, no it is not' for about an hour and then we were off, four hours to Dallas!

It was the first time on a plane for our two daughters, both four years old. They had quite a bit of fun telling the flight staff all about their trip and watching the iPad. How did people ever travel before the iPad was invented?

The real trouble began as we were descending and getting ready to land. In tandem the girls started to complain about their ears. There are those of you out there thinking, "I know what that means!" I didn't, now I do. Just as the plane was landing it began, first one, then the other. Four times each in fact, I was impressed as I didn't think they had eaten that much. That's as much detail as you're getting as I'm getting queasy just thinking about it.

Seconds later the plane lands as I'm trying to clean up the girls, the seats, the luggage, well everything, nice job girls. As the plane slows, I rang for the flight attendant for assistance. Over the PA system they announce that, "flight attendants must remain seated during landing and taxing, if this is an actual emergency please ring your call button again."

In the midst of the chaos I'm thinking I could use a little help, but what I should have been thinking is what do they mean 'emergency?' Yes I could use a towel or ten, I rang again. Suddenly the plane screeches to a stop. Airline lesson number one, using the word emergency while on an airplane constitutes an "in flight emergency" and the plane needs to be secured, the same plane that is in the middle of a runway. I'd like to take this moment to apologize to the passengers on the plane behind us, I'm sorry you and the next three planes could not land. While I'm apologizing let's send this apology out to the other passengers, sorry for the smell and for any 'sympathetic vomiting'.

When we got to the terminal we were able to unload without further difficulty. Fortunately the Mom had spare clothes for the girls and off to the bathrooms they go. I did not have spare pants.

Once we were semi regrouped I realized that in the madness I had forgotten my camera in the seat back pocket on the plane. I zipped over to the gate and asked if they could check. Unfortunately the plane had been towed off for an unscheduled cleaning, whoops. My next apology goes out to the passengers on the flight back to Boston, sorry for the delay in your flight, on the bright side, row 32 was really clean.

We did manage to fly to Arizona without further incident, that is until we got to the rental car. You thought the story was over, didn't you?

Did you know that rental car agencies only guarantee that they will have one car seat on hand per rental, we thought we had reserved two, but apparently the helpful person on the 800 number didn't really think we would NEED two.

Ninety Degrees, four hours past bed time, one rental car, two children, one car seat. See where this does not add up?

So the next time you travel, if you think things are getting bad, don't tell me or I may have to tell you about day two of my 'vacation'.

To the Editor:

A huge Thank You to all of the Marion Community for another successful Clean Up Day. From the scouts to Tabor students (led by headmaster Jay Stroud) to Marion businesses, the DPW, contributors, donors, volunteers and families, we all cleaned up the highways and byways of Marion- even those dreaded trash filled 195 on and off ramps. JOB WELL DONE.

Those of us on the committee cannot thank you all enough. Young and old from all corners of Marion turned out to put on vests (we had new small kid sizes this year donated by local businesses) and picked up our roads. Refreshments waited for us and the pile of trash grew and grew. This year we separated recycling items and that was a huge pile as well. And Gifts to Give collected a truck full of used clothing, toys, books etc.

If you want to Help Keep Marion Clean, you can stop by the Sippican Lands Trust office and pick up bags, gloves and vests. Both the girls and boys scouts will be doing this on a regular basis. Pick an area that you walk or drive by a lot and monitor it for trash - it makes a huge difference to have our roads clean and nice and shows that our community cares. Our spring clean up day is truly an example of our community coming together. Let's keep it going year round.

Thank you to one and all,

MOVIE REVIEW

Rise to Power

By Rob Gonsalves
www.robsmovievault.com

The Dictator*. Starring Sacha Baron Cohen and Anna Faris. Directed by Larry Charles. Running time: 83 minutes. MPAA rating: R.

Most movie stars would die without a script; Sacha Baron Cohen may be the rare actor who works best without one. In Borat and Bruno, Baron Cohen disappeared inside offensive foreign characters and then let them loose on America, interacting with actual people and recording his findings. The Dictator is different in that it's a scripted narrative (by Baron Cohen and three other writers) about Admiral General Hafez Aladeen (Baron Cohen), the capricious and preening ruler of the fictitious Wadiya. Through circumstances too contrived to bear repeating, Aladeen comes to America, is stripped of his signature beard, and finds himself powerless and anonymous on the streets of New York. How will this dictator, accustomed since childhood to having his every whim satisfied, adjust to life as just another immigrant shlub?

One problem is that he doesn't really have to. The script could have gone one of two ways: either he goes the Henry Hill route and lives the rest of his life like a shnook, or he somehow bends his surroundings to his will even without the support of the state. The Dictator opts for the second way, and though it seems fresher at first glance, it allows for very little shading for the character, comic or otherwise. Aladeen is pretty much one-note throughout; so were Borat and Bruno, though the structure of their films mitigated the characters' lack of growth — indeed, part of the fun was in watching the unpredictable reactions of real people to these unchanging, predictable characters. Baron Cohen and his writers give Aladeen some quirks but don't do much for the supporting characters. The result is a lack of any real comic tension between Aladeen and anyone else.

Needing a way into the United Nations to switch places with his double before the double can declare Wadiya a democracy (I told you it didn't bear repeating), Aladeen goes to work in an earthy-crunchy organic food store managed by the super-p.c. Zoey, played by a nearly unrecognizable Anna Faris with short black hair. Aladeen falls in love with her, and while the reasons for that are cleverly worked out, we mostly have to intuit that he's pleasantly shocked by the very notion of a woman who speaks her mind (or, indeed, has one and is allowed to prove it in front of men). As for what Zoey sees in him, your guess is better than mine; she seems to bond with him while helping him deliver a baby, a script decision considerably less sexist than what Aladeen takes for granted, but still pretty sexist. Ah, gals will always go mooshy around a baby.

The Dictator cribs a lot from Borat in that both are about blinkered males who can't help being sexist and racist — there's no malice in it, it's just the way they are reflexively. Borat, however, was used partly as an instrument to draw out American sexism and racism: he would say something offensive, and Americans would genuinely agree with him. There's nothing like that here, so there's no satirical bite to Aladeen's worldview. He just behaves predictably indefensibly in scene after scene. The same point is made over and over. Baron Cohen performs with his usual gusto, but he's acting in a self-made vacuum. If it were anyone else in the role, and if The Dictator weren't riding on the audience good will left over from Borat and (to a lesser extent) Bruno, it'd be a complete flop.

Some oddball touches lift the satire a bit: the movie seems both amused and obsessed by the notion of powerful political figures renting the sexual favors of celebrities. (We know from the ads that Aladeen buys Megan Fox's attentions, but the real joke is his wall covered with Polaroids of other stars, including a hilariously shamefaced former politician. There's also a cameo by a fairly random star who must be a good sport, or a fan of Baron Cohen.) But by now, what looked like good dirty fun, a funhouse mirror pointed at America, has calcified into easy shtick. Baron Cohen can't do his covert-op comedy any more — he's too easily recognized — but he's got to come up with something other than "guy with funny accent comes to America" if he doesn't want Borat to be his peak. He reportedly has other things on deck, including a movie about Queen frontman Freddie Mercury, and that might be a fine vehicle for Baron Cohen's fearlessness and high energy level. But the next time he and his coterie come up with a one-joke premise like The Dictator, they'd do well to confine it to a short film on Funny or Die — indeed, that's how Borat, Bruno and Ali G started, in short segments on Baron Cohen's TV show — instead of stretching it to 83 minutes.

problem is this. An economic analysis of solar panels quickly shows that there is no economic justification for these installations without substantial Government subsidization. For example, the installation currently under construction at the New Bedford Water Works site in Rochester has a payback period of 60 years. The applicant in that installation agreed that the project would not be considered without the props provided by the government.

As governments are learning, the subsidies to solar energy are not paying off. Look at the massive losses and bankruptcies in the industry, all funded by taxpayer dollars.

There is growing pressure on government to end the wasteful subsidies.

The economic justification, while a concern to all taxpayers, is not a matter for the Planning Board, but what happens to the installed solar panels when the subsidies are cancelled is a real concern. These HUGE arrays of panels are displacing natural areas. They block surface water from rainfall, may involve extensive clear cutting and if abandoned, are a mechanical hazard. Children especially will be drawn to such sites where they will be at risk of injury and laceration.

The solar installations will not operate for the sixty years required to recover the investment. Generous estimates put the life of current equipment at twenty years. If a solar installation has to fall back on private economic support, the return will not pay for the upkeep, and that may lead to abandonment.

In Rochester we are working to craft a bylaw that addresses the requirement of the owner to dismantle and remove the installation if it is decommissioned and not maintained. We are exploring the possibility of requiring a bond to cover the cost that would be born by the Town if the installation is abandoned.

Marion and all communities would be well advised to consider the potential for adverse consequences when commercial enterprises require the artificial support provided by Government subsidy. Sadly, the free market will not step in to unburden these economically unjustifiable nuisances.

Furthermore, landowners who are by their own designs, or as a result of the many solicitations made by the promoters of these taxpayer funded solar schemes, should consider the wisdom and the justice of participating in an economically unfeasible enterprise by which they will be enriched at their neighbor's expense.

ORRHS Class of 1962 Remembers

Any school's senior prom is time to get all dressed up enjoy one of the last events of your senior year at High School. In 1962, Old Rochester Regional was no different ...well maybe a little different than today. Gil Ferro and his Orchestra held our senior prom, the first for the new school, at the Marion Tennis Club on June 1, 1962 with music.

The theme of the prom was "Blue Hawaii"- most likely a reference to Elvis' movie. Proms were held locally unlike today when they're turned into a destination prom and in some cases, an all night event.

Judy Furnans, of Mattapoisett, was named the Queen of the Prom with her court consisting of Connie Hardy, Ruth Ann Tripp and Carole Woodcock. Kids were able to get their parent's car for the night to pick up their dates. There were no stretch limos around to rent and what student had their own car?

manners back then required one. It was made up of the Superintendent, Principal and faculty members. How weird was it going through the receiving line and trying to act grown up in front of the principal?

Some classmates recall going to Ned's Point Lighthouse after the prom to extend the night and have breakfast at a classmate's house. Others went to the beach with a 6-pack for 4 people and had some left over. Drinking wasn't a big thing. People just wanted to hang out. Quoting from the Standard Times in 1962, "Success of the prom set a fine precedent for future events of this type. For the seniors it was almost their most important activity, being second only to the formal graduation..."

Our graduation was held June 15, 1962 with 75

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A stubborn refusal to go ahead on a project mystifies colleagues who expected more flexibility. But once you explain your position, they'll understand and even applaud you.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A relationship seems to be stuck in the same place. Now it's up to you, dear Bovine, to decide how far you want it to go and how intense you want it to be. Choose well and choose soon.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A relationship progresses more slowly than you would prefer. Best advice: Insist on a frank and open discussion. What is learned could change minds and, maybe, hearts.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It's all right to be grateful to a workplace colleague who has done you a good turn. But gratitude shouldn't be a life-long obligation. The time to break this cycle is now.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) It's going to be especially nice to be the King of the Zodiac at this time. A recent money squeeze eases. Plans start to work out, and new friends enter Your Majesty's domain.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Before you make a commitment on any level (personal, professional, legal), get all the facts. There might be hidden problems that could cause trouble later on.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Personal relationships improve. Professional prospects also brighten. A job offer could come through by month's end. An old friend seeks to make contact.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Your senses detect that something is not quite right about a matter involving a workplace colleague. Best advice: Follow your keen instincts and don't get involved.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A prospect offers rewards, but it also demands that you assume a great deal of responsibility. Knowing you, you're up to the challenge, so go for it, and good luck.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A favor you did a long time ago is repaid, as a trusted colleague steps in to help you with a suddenly expanded workload. A family member has important news.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A new job offer could require moving across the country. But before you let your doubts determine your decision, learn more about the potentials involved.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Your sense of fair play doesn't allow you to rush to judgment about a friend who might have betrayed you. Good! Because all the facts are not yet in.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a romantic nature that allows you to find the best in people. You would excel at poetry and drama.

students eagerly waiting to receive their diplomas and get on with their lives. "Pomp and Circumstances" played as the students filed into the ORR auditorium. Ross Hopkins, our class president, welcomed everyone to the graduation; a vocal solo by Sandra Briggs preceded a piano solo by Peter Sawyer. As students received their diplomas from Dr. Benjamin Tilden, chairman of the Regional School Board, the female graduates were given bouquets of white carnations and the boys were given a single buttonhole flower. Filing off the stage at ORR, we were now officially the first graduating class of Old Rochester Regional High School: an honor that no other class can claim.

RMS Miles for Memorial Fitness Challenge

On Wednesday, May 30 the Rochester Memorial School community will be participating in the Second Annual "Miles for Memorial School Kid's Fitness Challenge". This daylong, community service event will be dedicated to promoting "Physical Activity" and the health and wellness of RMS students, while providing a grassroots fundraising effort in support of fitness and fun.

This year's challenge course will be open to all students from 10:00 am to 2:00 pm. The 2-mile loop of supervised roadways that surround the Memorial School, challenges students to move their bodies at a moderate to vigorous pace (brisk walk, jog, run, etc.) from beginning to end.

With support from their teachers, students will set personal and/or group fitness goals. Data will be collected and analyzed by students, at the discretion of classroom teachers. Throughout the day, raffle tickets will be distributed to students who are "caught" engaging in behaviors that support the health and wellness of themselves and others. Tickets can then be entered into a drawing to win prizes that help support student engagement in physical activity. New this year is the addition of "drop in" activities, where students can take a break from the challenge course while still remaining physically active.

In support of our student fitness challenge, financial sponsor donations are being sought from friends and family members. These donations will help in the construction of the Rochester Memorial School playground. To make an online sponsor donation using PayPal, please visit the RMS-PTO website!

This community service-learning event creates opportunity for students and teachers to make real-world connections to school curriculum and instruction. Our event is also rooted in the National Association for Sport and Physical Education standards that support the development and maintenance of good health in students throughout the United States. The goal of RMS Physical Education is to develop individuals who have the knowledge, skills, and confidence to enjoy a lifetime of healthful physical activity!

Point Road Memorial Forest Walk

The Point Road Memorial Forest (PRMF) is a place of tranquil unspoiled beauty. The spirit of this enterprise is to return our physical selves to the earth with loving and natural commemoration.

In 1994, the Stone Family donated two acres to the Town of Marion for a public cemetery located off Point Road adjacent to the Blankenship Cemetery. The Point Road Memorial Forest was created in 2000 by an inspired collaboration of a generous family, a talented landscape architect, energetic volunteers and the Town of Marion.

Patty Wylde, landscape designer, took inspiration from the distinctive landscape features and the native flora to create an elegant woodland place of permanent repose. Due to the topography of the land, the burial of cremated remains only is mandated and is limited to the residents of Marion and their relatives.

Please join us on Sunday, June 3 at 4:00 pm for a walk through the forest along with an informal talk about its history and its future. The Advisory Committee (Margie Baldwin, Chrissie Bascom, Tess Cederholm, Margaret Nash and Cathy Stone) will be on hand to guide you and to answer any questions that you might have.

The PRMF is the smallest of the six cemeteries in Marion and is permanently endowed. It is the only one limited to cremated remains. There will be brochures at the site as well as at the Department of Public Works, which will explain in detail the genesis of the cemetery and the burial procedure.

Mattapoisett Fire Department Fire Safety

More fires start in the kitchen than anywhere else in the home and in 2010, there were 9,806 home fires in Massachusetts involving cooking...but that doesn't mean you have to get rid of your stove or eat out all of the time.

There are several tips you can do to help reduce the chances of a fire starting from cooking:

- PUT A LID ON IT! Covering a pan fire with a lid is the safest way to put out a stovetop fire. Once covered, turn off the heat to the pan and leave the pan covered until it cools.
- Never move a burning pan. You can be badly burned or spread the fire.
- Never throw water on a grease fire. Water will only spread the fire.
- Stand by your pan. Be sure not to leave food, grease or oils cooking on the stovetop unattended.
- Wear short or tight fitting sleeves when cooking. Loose fitting clothing can easily catch fire.
- Stop, Drop & Roll to put out the flames if your clothes happen to catch fire. Place burned skin under cool running water and call 9-1-1.
- Keep pot handles turned inward to prevent accidental spills of hot contents.
- For fires inside an oven or microwave, KEEP

Whether you are cooking the family dinner or a snack for the children, practicing safe cooking behaviors will keep you and your family remains safe. In the event of a fire, do not spend a significant amount of time attempting to put it out. Get out first, then call 9-1-1 and give them your complete address, the location of the fire and inform them as to whether or not anyone is still inside the house. No matter the reason, never go back into the house and remain outside at your safe meeting place in the front of your home.

These and other Fire Safety Tips can be found on the Mattapoisett Fire Department web page at www.mattapoisett.net. Any additional questions regarding Fire Safety, contact Lt. Patrick Saltmarsh at 508-758-4150 or by emailing: psaltmarsh@mattapoisett.net

This is Rosie; my sister's first grade dream, my father's boat buddy, my mother's shadow. She was the sweetest yellow lab any family could ever ask for. She filled our lives with excited hellos, furry rugs and wet kisses for fifteen long years. Rosie passed away in June of 2009 beneath our piano. We knew the end was near as she walked weakly throughout the house, carefully choosing the place in which she would take her last breath. By some fated chance, considering my high school graduation was the following morning and my sister lived in New York at the time, our entire family was home that night. To this day, I'm still convinced Rosie held on long enough so that we all recieved the chance to say goodbye. There we were; the four of us with wet eyes knelt beside Rosie, reassuring her and ourselves that it was OK for her to go.

Nearly three years later I can still hear the faint tapping of her nails against our wooden floors. Some days, out of the corner of my eye, I can even catch a glimpse of her silhouette at our back porch. While we miss her with all of our hearts, it comforts us to know that Rosie died as gently as she lived.

Habitat for Humanity Seeking Land

Buzzards Bay Area Habitat for Humanity (BBAHFH) is seeking land or property to be renovated, for future Habitat homes.

Buzzards Bay Area Habitat for Humanity's housing programs is supported by donations. Our financial resources to purchase land are limited, so we rely upon gifts of land to assure the affordability of the houses that we build. A special thank you to past land donors, the Byrne family and the Decas family, for supporting Habitat and its cause by donating land, enabling BBAHFH to build five affordable homes in the area!

There are many benefits of donating land to BBAHFH. Donors receive substantial tax deductions on the donation, freedom from unwanted property holdings, and long-term savings not having to pay property taxes! By donating land or property to BBAHFH, you will be providing an affordable home for a deserving family in need, joining in our efforts to meet the incredible need for safe, well built, affordable homes in our area.

BBAHFH is looking for various types of properties, from a parcel of land that is suitable to build on, to property with a home that needs to be demolished or renovated. We are hoping to partner with private donors, local foundations, affordable housing trusts, community preservation groups, other town agencies, developers, realtors, and banks looking to meet their CRA requirements.

You may partner with BBAHFH by donating a parcel of land or a home to Habitat or by selling it at a discounted rate. Tax deductions are given on the full

Tri-County Symphonic Band Father's Day Concert

On Father's Day, Sunday, June 17, at 3:00 pm (2:00 pm Social Hour) the Tri-County Symphonic Band will perform its Father's Day Concert at The Grand Tent at Fireman Performing Arts Center, Tabor Academy, 235 Front Street, Marion.

Come join us in an elegant, spacious tent on the scenic shore of Sippican Harbor, as cupcakes adorn the tables and the bidding on the silent auction ensues.

There will be selections that resonate with Grandfathers, Fathers and children of all ages. Bring the whole family and help us celebrate Father's Day (and Grandfather's Day) as well as the band's 50th season with this afternoon event. Tickets are available at www.TriCountySymphonicBand.org and at the door ($25 Adult, $10 Student, Children 5 and Under Free). Festival seating is on a first-come, first-seated basis.
